Recognition of Donors

Fiscal Year 2008, July 1, 2007 - June 30, 2008

Dear Friends,

As your interim president, I write to you from a new position that has brought new and exciting opportunities for me personally, professionally and for Heidelberg. With this position comes a new perspective. Not only do I view the campus from a different angle, I understand more clearly and completely the benefits of your generosity.

Looking across the lawn from College Hall to the science complex, I see the stunning bronze sculpture, titled Essence of Liberal Arts, donated by the 50th anniversary Class of 1958. Depicted on the four-panel sculpture are intricately carved images representing music, the sciences, the humanities and sports. When the sculpture was dedicated during Alumni Weekend in June, Trustee David Drake, who served as class president, offered these poignant words:

“[The sculpture] is a tribute to learning, and represents the best of what Heidelberg College was, is and will be. It is an affirmation of our liberal arts education and adds beauty to the campus.”

While the gift of the sculpture is a beautifully attractive and thought-provoking addition to the campus landscape, it represents so much more. Through their support, the members of the Class of 1958 – and indeed, all of the donors listed in this report – have shown that they understand the affirmation Dave mentioned. So many of you have embraced the philanthropic ideal of giving back, of demonstrating in tangible ways your appreciation for the foundation in life and career you received at Heidelberg.

Through your gifts, regardless of size or type, you have collectively lifted up your college. We are humbled by your continued support and belief in the mission we live on a daily basis: to be a community of learning that promotes and nurtures intellectual, personal and professional development, leading to a life of purpose with distinction.

The Class of ‘58’s sculpture certainly is distinct. And it is timeless, as is your thoughtful and generous support of Heidelberg. On behalf of the entire Heidelberg community, I wish to express my deep gratitude to each of you, and invite you to campus regularly to witness what your extraordinary gifts have made possible.

Sincerely,

James A. Troha, Ph.D.
Interim President.

A Spiritual Connection

Although Elsie Brunker and Paul Stark never met each other, they have a spiritual connection.

Elsie and her husband Harry, members of the Presbyterian church, graduated from Kent State University. She was a teacher in the Canton area, and he was a plant superintendent.

An ordained minister, Paul is the new director of Campus Ministry and Religious Life at Heidelberg. When he arrived on campus July 1, he began to define his goals for the spiritual growth of students. Paul he has identified the areas of worship, small group development, ecumenical/interfaith projects and community engagement as his goals. “Chaplaincy responsibilities extend beyond students and include a caring presence for the entire community,” he said.

When setting up their will, the Brunkers each selected small, church-related colleges as the beneficiaries. “Elsie decided on Heidelberg because she knew many people in the Canton area who had attended Heidelberg and it is a church-affiliated institution,” said Director of Development Lee Martin.

Originally, the Brunkers created a scholarship to benefit students who wanted to become ministers. However as those numbers of students declined, their heir approved the use of their gift to engage students in spiritual growth. Thus, a portion of the funds were dedicated to the campus ministry position.

In his new role, Paul plans to develop an open and welcoming culture in which students will explore and act on their faith.

That certainly would honor Elsie and Harry’s intent.

Featuring Donors: Thelma Park

Thelma (Batesole) Park, '34, had such fond memories of her alma mater that she designated Heidelberg to receive the residual of her property in a planned gift that has far-reaching benefits for the campus.

Thelma's gift totaled about $650,000. Because the gift was "unrestricted," senior administrators allocated the funds to match the college's greatest needs, said Rick Raymond, vice president for Business Affairs and CFO. "We really appreciated that we could look at what the greatest needs of the college were and allocate accordingly."

The college has completed or will complete several important projects over the span of three years, thanks to her generosity. Among them are:

- Installation of a series of code-blue phones to dial for emergency assistance
- Replacement of the campus voicemail system
- Resurfacing and renovation of the tennis court for athletic competitions
- Replacement of equipment in Hoernemann Refectory
- Purchase of two homes as part of the college's master plan, one of which is being used for student housing
- Equipment for anthropology and the Center for Historic and Military Archaeology, biology and physics lab and classroom instruction.
- Roof repairs and masonry work on several college buildings, including Campus Center, College Hall, and France and Miller residence halls.

Administrators are in the process of prioritizing other capital improvement projects that will be completed in the next fiscal year based on funds from her gift. One such project is renovation of the Octagon House, which will undergo extensive renovation.

Thelma, a native of Beckley, W.Va., spent the early part of her career as a teacher. Through their professional lives, she and her husband, Jim, lived in Atlantic City, N.J.; Norfolk, Va.; and Jacksonville, Fla., eventually returning to Norfolk, where they lived until their deaths. She was a motivated woman who went back to school and earned a degree in social work. She put her helping spirit to work as the director of the Social Service Bureau at a Norfolk hospital, working there until her retirement.

Just as Thelma knew the importance of education, a grateful college recognizes the importance of her foresight and estate planning. Her legacy will be remembered with great appreciation. She would be pleased to know the many and diverse ways that her gift will touch the lives of students now and for years to come.

As a professional fund-raiser, Ken Block, '66, understands the dual benefits of deferred gift annuities, and the intrinsic value of a philanthropic spirit. Ken and his wife, Pat, established a deferred gift annuity – a gift to Heidelberg that will provide them fixed payments for life. As a bonus, he designated the proceeds of his annuity in honor of a former faculty member who had a lasting impact on his life.

“I was privileged to be a member of The Heidelberg Concert Choir under the direction of Dr. Ohl. It was because of Dr. and Mrs. Ohl’s tireless work and dedication to the choir that I learned to appreciate music as one of the greatest art forms; it uplifts the human spirit. I owe my love for music and singing to Dr. Ohl.

My wife and I decided to support the Ohl Endowment by funding a Heidelberg deferred gift annuity as one small way of saying thank you to Dr. and Mrs. Ohl for this life-changing experience. At the same time, this gift arrangement will provide support for future students to enjoy music in their lives.”

Youngblood gives back

Alumni Council President Bob Youngblood, '71, saw a need in the Athletic Department and stepped up to the plate – or should we say, onto the mat.

Bob, a wrestler during his student days, recently funded the purchase of a new mat for the wrestling team that means so much to him. “It was just something I felt I wanted to do,” he said. The retired teacher and coach who lives in Berea, Ohio, added, “Originally, I had planned to solicit others, but I backed off ... and I decided, ‘Let’s just do it.’”

Bob said his contribution is, in large part, a well-earned and much-deserved recognition for the wrestling team’s hard work and success. The Berg has won the Ohio Athletic Conference tournament title three years running and two of the last three regular season titles under head coach Jason Miller, '98.

Bob maintains a very active involvement with his alma mater. He’s a devoted fan of Heidelberg athletics, and in addition, he actively recruits students for Heidelberg and serves as the Alumni Council representative on the Board of Trustees.
