

Wednesday, March 25, 2020

Dear Students,

We know you are all still transitioning to all of your online courses for the remainder of the semester. It's already that time of the semester, though, that we begin advising to discuss courses for the Fall 2020 semester.

To help you get that started, the Owen Center for Teaching and Learning, along with academic departments, will be hosting group advising sessions via Zoom. You are invited to join those discussions based on your major(s). Faculty and staff will discuss course recommendations for different majors, provide details about program electives, and then go over the process for registration. We are hoping time will be available at the end of the group sessions for some questions specific to your own academic plan, and those questions can also be addressed through one-on-one sessions with your academic advisor.

Session information will be sent to groups by major in the coming days, so keep an eye on your email for further instructions.

The unprecedented measures taken to address COVID-19 are moving us all forward into uncharted territory ... but we've got this! The best thing we can do to help each other is to keep open lines of communication, so stay up to date on reading your emails and do not hesitate to reach out with thoughts, questions, or concerns.

With Berg Pride,

Dr. Courtney DeMayo Pugno, Executive Director of the Owen Center
cdemayo@heidelberg.edu

Lindsey Baumgartner, Academic Advising Specialist
lbaumgar@heidelberg.edu
567.218.3374